Tiffany Sutton, Nyara Williams

The Griot Museum of Black History and Harvard University Commonwealth Project present Memories of Black Presence, a group exhibition reflecting the visual perspectives of six St. Louis photographers and filmmakers who were selected as part of their 2020 In the City fellowship program. As this exhibition documents their individual stories of places, people, and experiences across the ever-changing city, this virtual opening event fuses their voices in dialogue to reveal connections between their creative processes and unique relationships to the land, life, and history of St. Louis.

Opening Event March 26, 2021 7:00–8:00pm EST
